

TECHNICAL PARTNER MEETINGS

A COMPLIMENTARY SERVICE FROM ROBERT HALF MANAGEMENT RESOURCES

At Robert Half Management Resources we recognise that prior to launching a new initiative you may have questions regarding the scope and requirements of your project.

To assist you to better understand your technical, personnel and budget requirements, we offer a complimentary resource based consultation with one of our subject matter experts who will be able to offer accurate advice on all aspects of your upcoming project.

BENEFIT FROM:

- Uncharged consulting time to establish your needs
- Qualified technical expertise
- Extensive experience relating to your particular project
- Efficient and timely advice prior to embarking on an action plan.

OUTCOMES INCLUDE:

- Accurately evaluate the project budget
- Determine the number and experience of additional staff required
- Predict timelines and end date
- Discuss prospective project issues and upfront 'troubleshooting'.

Prior to and during your complimentary resource based consultation, your Robert Half Management Resources Consultant will facilitate the flow of information between you and our subject matter expert.

This ensures the subject matter expert's understanding of:

- your industry, company and department
- growth and staff movement
- market forces and legislation that affects your industry
- the project background and desired outcomes
- starting date and your critical timelines.

Here's what one of our clients has to say about our Technical Partner Meetings.

"The Technical Partner Meeting was an excellent and valuable tool. Being able to discuss our requirements with the technical expert, assisted us greatly in fully understanding our needs, and allowed us to better plan and communicate the benefits of our project to the organisation. The ability to access the technical partner in the planning of the project, saved us significant time and money and ensured that we were able to hire the right person to complete the right job."
